

Vetoquinol

- Case Study

xsign worked directly with Vetoquinol to provide a suite of protective, safety screens for their offices near Towcester.

To enable the safe return of staff to the office, xsign provided a range of screens that helps to prevent the spread of coronavirus.

We've provided a mix of clear, acrylic screen designs fixed to the desks and communal areas that help prevent airborne particles transmitting from one person to the next.

If you require protective screens in your business setting, contact the xsign team for more information.

